GTE has analysed in detail the Minimum Transparency Requirements list (MinTra list) presented by stakeholders at the Madrid Forum in November 2008 and is happy to present a proposal for concrete implementation of the list based on best practises across Europe (see the attached .xls file).

Following its commitment to organize a workshop on the MinTra list, GTE would like to invite all stakeholders to a Transparency workshop to be held on 31 March 2009 to discuss the above mentioned proposal.

Based on the results of the workshop, GTE would like to recommend to its members to carry out the implementation of the MinTra list in line with any modified final proposal. In that respect, GTE would like to point out that due to different national regulatory framework any such implementation will be subject to agreement by the respective NRA to cover the costs of implementation.

Costs of implementation at individual TSOs will vary in particular due to different IT structures in use and differences in IT planning, and partially also due to different complexity of the transmission systems themselves.
